Karl Decker, the Journal correspondent who rescued Evangelina, is suffering the penalty of greatness.

The congratulations of friends are gratifying to a man who has done a splendld thing, and the appreciation of strangers within limits is also pleasing, but when a naturally retiring fellow finds himself the centre of an admiring crowd wherever he

Another circumstance tending toward the peaceful solution of the question at issue between the United States and Spain is the position which Premier Sagasta has taken with regard to the Competitor prisoners. Having ascertained that the Conservative Cabinet had brought the prosecution to a standstill, and that the prisoners had been awalting trial in prison for many months, the Premier has appointed a committee consisting of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs and of the Colonies to examine the situation on the ground that it is an injustice to keep the Competitor's men in prison so long. the Competitor's men in prison so long wife FOUND; RIVAL IN JAIL, without trial. The Ministerial newspapers assert tonight that the principal object of Senor man Army, who claims to be a broker at Giberga's conference with Senors Sagnsta No. 314 Second avenue, was lodged in Lud-Giberga's conference with Senors Sagasta and Moret was to obtain assurances that he and those other autonomists who have been almost siding with the insurgents would not be molested if they returned to Cuba. This seems to show that Senor Giberga and the Government did not come to terms, and that the Ministers are trying to explain matters without avowing the failure of the negotiations. As a matter of fact, if Senor Giberga was able to visit Spain without danger, he ran no risk in going likewise to Cuba.

The more moderate autonomists, headed by Senor Labra, are ready to accept the Government's proposals of autonomy.

Orders to His Colleagues with a View to the Speedy Settlement of the Affair.

Madrid, Oct. 15 .- The Spanish Cabinet to-day discussed the case of the American schooner Competitor, which was captured in Cuban waters on April 25, 1896, a case which, owing to the fear which Premier Canovas del Castillo had of stir-ring up action upon the part of the Con-gress of the United States, was postponed by the late Government. The Cabinet today ordered the Ministers of Foreign Af fairs, the Navy and the Colonies to examine the documents in the case, with the view of its speedy settlement by the

The American schooner Competitor, of fifty tons burden, was a fast and able boat, belonging to Key West, where, until she apparently became a fillbuster, she was engaged in the sponge business. On April 20, 1896, the Competitor left Key West, and is said to have shipped a fillbustering expedition a day or two later. After some clever dodging, she made Cape Sable, where she is reported to have taken on board General Monzon, of the Cuban army, and the remaining members of his party. Captain Alfredo Laborde, who was in command of the Competitor, has always claimed that the Cubans took possession of his vessel by force, and so succeeded in shipping the arms, ammunition and fillbusters on board the schooner. In any case, the Competitor was captured by the Spanish gunboat Mensajera on April 26, and although the fillbusters seemed to have succeeded in landing their expedition and its supplies, five men were made prisoners by the war vessel, and were tried by court-martial at Havana on May 8, 1896. They were Captain Alfredo Laborde, said to be the leader of the expedition; Dr. Ellas Bedin, William Gildea, said to be a British subject; John Melton, a native of Kansas, and Teodoro-Mata. Laborde and Bedia are said to be unaturalized American citizens, but their chaims have been disputed: Melton, however, is beyond doubt an American.
